

The story of a Little Princess

Hannah Tarplee loved her hair. So when she underwent treatment for a Wilms tumour, the loss of her hair was especially traumatic.

When Hannah tragically died in 2005 her parents felt the most fitting tribute would be a charity dedicated to providing wigs, free of charge, to children who had lost their own hair due to cancer treatment or other conditions.

The Little Princess Trust was born and the charity has since helped thousands of young people regain their confidence and identity by giving them a real hair wig.

Thanks to its huge family of supporters, The Little Princess Trust is also funding lifesaving research into childhood cancers.
